Fenian War Song.

Here is one of the war songs of the Fenians, as sung at the late gathering of the bands in the city of New York:

Up, at last, the noble green!
Rally, rally, men!
Prime the musket, whet the skian;
Rally, rally, men!
Ring the tocsin, sound the drum,
Swell aloft the battle hum;
Freedom's trial now has come,
Rally, rally, men!

Hush the critick, greet the true,
Rally, rally, men!
Link the soldiers' green and blue,
Rally, rally, men!
Brothers all for motherland,
Join in love, and hand in hand,
Let the fight be fierce and grand,
Rally, rally, men!

Thunder through the battle's brunt.
Rally, rally, men!
Take the foemen flank and front,
Rally, rally, men!
Send the ship or cannon, gun—
Neptune's sailors—Mars' red son:
Heaven's work on earth begun!
(Or, to the front, the work's begun,)
Rally, rally, men!

The following beats all the stories of remarkable escapes which we remember ever to have heard:

On the passage of the ship Anaxander from New Orleans to New York, a young lad, about fourteen years of age, from a naturally frolicsome and mischievous disposition, became so troublesome in his pranks that he was threatened by the Captain, if they were continued, that he would confine him in a water cask. Our youngster, however, took no heed, and on again offending was put in the cask, which was headed up, leaving a large bunghole for the admission of air. That night the ship encountered a violent storm and in a caddan large buse. storm, and in a sudden lurch the cask containing the boy rolled over into the sea. Fortunately the cask struck bung up, and floated about thirty hours, when it was thrown upon the beach at St. Blas. Here the boy made desperate efforts to extricate himself from his prison, but without success, and in despair gave up to die. Some cows, however, strolling on the beach, were attracted to the cask, and in walking around it, one of them switched her tail into the bunghole, switched her tail into the bunghole, which the lad grasped with a desperate resolution. The cow bellowed and set off for life, and after running some two hundred yards with the cask struck it against a log on the beach, and knocked it, as we say, into a cocked hat. The boy, thus providentially released, was discovered by some fishermen on the Point and some fishermen on the Point, and taken into Apalachicola, where a small collection being made for him, he was enabled to proceed North by the way of Columbus."

A RICH MAN WHO IS NOT ASHAMED of His Grand-father's Business.— There is in New York a gentleman of ample fortnue, which he received by inheritance, and who has never inflicted upon himself an occupation, except that of sensibility, spending and enjoying his income. Notwithstanding this he does not ignore his plebian origin or affect aristocratic notions, as his recent selection of a coat-of-arms for a new carriage, at the urgent request of his wife, will show. The lady, thinging the old carriage unfashionable, got the ready consent of her husband for a new one, and was very anxious that the "family" coat-of-arms should be emblazoned upon its panels. This the husband consented to, promising to sketch them out for the painter when the vehicle was completed.

At the time the lady promptly are.

At that time the lad# promptly presented herself for his sketch of the family arms.

Taking a pen, the millionaire drew something resembling a small mound; by it was stuck a manure fork, and upon the fork was perched chanticleer rampant.

"Why, what is this?" asked madam in amazement.
"This," said the man of money, "is our family coat-of-arms. My grand-father made his money carting manure PROVISIONS! in Brooklyn, and invested it in real estate in New York. Now listen to the explanation of the arms. This mound and fork represent my grandfather's occupation; the cock perched upon the top of the fork represents myself, who have done nothing but flap my wings and crow on that dung-hill ever since."

It is almost unnecessary to state that this decidedly original coat-ofarms was never printed upon the millionaire's carriage, which has a plain panel to this date.

In the cellars of Baron Rothschild's mansion, Rue Lafitte, Paris, are 24,000 bottles of every species of the wines existing at the commencement of this century, from the Lachryma Christi, which every visitor to Naples has tasted, to the purple-tinted sweet wines of the Cape; from the common wines of the Macon vineyards to the rare vintages of Medoc. The value of this collection amounts to about $50,000.

A REMARKABLE PHENOMENON.—A new island has suddenly appeared in the Grecian Archipelago, rising in five days 150 feet above the level of the sea, and presenting a surface of about six acres. The island still continues to increase, and is due to volcanic action, as it is composed of half-molten lava, and was preceded by flames coming up out of the sea, accompanied with tremendous explosions. It first appeared on 31st Ja-

THE IMPORTANCE OF FRESH AIR IN BED-ROOMS. - We have recently given to our readers from the Boston, New York and Chicago papers reports of three cases of suffocation by coal gas. One of these was by stopping up a chimney flue; but the other two were caused by ignorance or carelessness on the part of the poor sufferers themselves. People who sleep in rooms where coal fires are burning, either in stoves or grates, should take care that the draft is not so shut off as to prevent the gas from passing off through the chimney. Where it is so shugh, the gas must escape into the room, here it must be breathed into the lungs of the sleeping occupants, and death or terrible illness is the consequence. These accidents, says the Philadelphia Ledger, would not be so deadly in their effects, but for the fact that, in nearly all fatal cases from coal gas being allowed to escape in the room, there is also an absence of all usual means of obtaining fresh air. Doors and windows are all shut up close, and every crack or crevice that would 'let in the cold" is tightly sealed. This keeping out of "every bit of cold" also keeps out that con-stant supply of fresh air, so indis-pensable to the healthy action of the lungs. Every time a supply of air is taken into the lungs, it is deprived of its vital part, the oxygen, before it is breathed out again; and when it is out, it is no more fit to be taken into the lungs again than so much poison. Air which has not been deprived of

CARD.

THE MERCHANTS THE SOUTH.

THE undersigned, WHOLESALE DEAL-TERS, advise you of the fact that Charleston is again a market for the purchase of goods; and in view of the early opening of the Spring Trade, we beg to solicit the resumption of the patronage so liberally extended to this market in the past. We are aware that many old and respected firms will be missed from our number, but many familiar names will be found in new associations, ready to supply the wants of the trade as of yore, and other old and new firms will be added to our number at an early day.

The cash and short-credit system having been universally adopted in all the Northern markets, we are necessarily compelled to adopt a like system as the only safe one on which to conduct business, and the heavy per centage once necessary to cover bad debts will now be avoided. Small profits and quick returns will be the rule, and under its working we hope not only to restore to our ancient city its former prosperity, but to extend her trade to the full extent of the capabilities her excellent geographical position and natural advantages afford. Our interest and ambition combine to stimulate us in attaining this result.

The South Carolina Railroad is now open compine to stimulate us in attaining this result.

The South Carolina Railroad is now open to Columbia, and its President has officially informed us that the Augusta line will be completed to Blackville this month, and that on the first of February he will receive through freight to Augusta. A line of steamers to Savannah will afford facilities for shipping in that direction. It is our purpose to have in store, by the last of February, a complete and varied assortment of goods in our respective lines adapted to the Spring Trade, and every exertion shall be made to promote your interests. interests.

We extend to you the hand of commercial fellowship, and solicit your co-operation and patronage in our efforts to make Charleston the centre of Southern trade. Give us the encouragement we ask, and you will enjoy all the advantages of a cheap home market.
